for Christmas presents this year.

The first party of the season given by the Astoria Social club took place at Pythian castle last evening. By 9:30 the spacious rooms were filled by some thirty members of the society with their guests and a delightful evening was spent. The music was under the direction of Prof. Naef, thirteen pieces being played consisting of the usual order of dances. According to agreement the party broke up at midnight.

The postmaster general has directed postmasters to exchange for the public, as applications are made, three and sixcent denominations of postage stamps and stamped envelopes for others of different denominations. Stamped envelopes stamped and stamped envelopes bearing printed cards and special requests will be exchanged; also stamped envelopes that bear printed addresses. Stamps and envelopes issued prior to 1861 will not be exchanged.

MIGHT HAVE BEEN WORSE.—The Ock. Beautiful Holiday Gift Books lohama brought down the barge Columbia yesterday with wheat for the Bolivia, and just after tying up to that vessel to discharge, a strong ebb tide running at the time, the Gleniffer dragged her anchor and tore away the barge, which, swinging athwart the Bolivia, bent that vessel's jibboom and then started down the stream, finally bringing up across the bows of the Imperial. The Ocklohana fastened a line to the barge and finally, with the assistance of the Dixie Thompson, got matters straightened out.

An East Wind.—The morning air was frosty yesterday, a keen wind from the east turned the Columbia to a deep blue, and the full moon tide lashed noisily thor at Adler's Crystal Palace, and the full moon tide lashed noisily against she piers and lapped along the For the Holidays.

Sides of the ships in the stream. In sheltered spots on the lee side of vessels the water was smooth and the passing water as a sharp knife would rip a seam of blue silk. Down toward the bar the trampling of the surf along the sand was faint, and the white winged sea galls flew to the sheltering shoulder of Scarborough head. In the city the air was crisp and though the sun shone through the day in unclouded splendor an overcoat was an indispensable requisite of comfort to those who left the fireside.

SEVERELT BEATEN,-Capt. Phil Johnson. who brought down the Inchesees yesterday morning, is in a badiy bruised condition. He reports that while walking up Washington street in Portland last Tuesday night he was accosted by a group of five men, one of whom asked him, "Is your name-Johnson?" He replying that it was, they immediately fell upon him, the lender of the gang and one other man with loaded canes, and though he made the best fight possible under the circumstances, five to one was too great odds.

Want, and no man need button his coat up to his neck now, except for warmth. These bosoms are composed of six layers, the top one to be torn off when soiled. By great care one of these pads will last six weeks. An extragloes bosom is put up in the same style for use on special occasions. The bosoms are self-fastening and adjusting, and are adapted for quick dressing. It looks as though the shirt will have to go next summer in case of lively fire alarms. Never was there such a magnificent day morning, is in a badly bruised condiwith leaded canes, and the best fight possible under the circumstances, five to one was too great odds and he was overpowered and beaten senseless. The new high hat is of very peculiar build. The old bell-topper has been struck below the belt and knocked out of style. The silk hat that issued from the door of an up-town residence on the head of one of the Astoria Social club last evening is the successor. The rim is nar-row along the sides, and broad before and behind. The crown is at least ten inches high and inclines to a point very slightly. The band is wide and is ornamented with a buckle on each side. The material of the hat is not shiny, nor is it dull, but rather of medium gloss. Taken as a whole the hat is a beauty and will be a favorite from the start. When in full dress the wearer adds a tassel to the left-hand buckle and the head-gear is com-
